

Undergraduate Admissions

March 19, 2021

Dear [REDACTED]

Congratulations! I am pleased to offer you admission to the Aerospace Engineering Sciences program in the College of Engineering & Applied Science for the Fall 2021 term at the University of Colorado Boulder. Please review your [REDACTED]

At CU Boulder, you will join a dynamic and diverse community that is committed to the Colorado Creed: to treat one another with honor, integrity, accountability and respect. Our rich tradition of academic excellence and our nationally-recognized research facilities, outstanding faculty and multitude of unique learning opportunities combine to provide the perfect environment in which to achieve your educational goals and discover who you are.

The student identification number (SID) assigned to your university file is [REDACTED]. You will need your SID to activate your IdentiKey (if you have not done so already). Please safeguard your SID and keep it in your records for future reference.

Before you can confirm your intent to enroll at the University of Colorado Boulder, you will need to provide "Proof of English Proficiency" that meets our requirements. You can demonstrate English proficiency either by achieving the required scores on the TOEFL or IELTS, or by enrolling in, and successfully completing, all required levels of CU Boulder's ESL Academic Bridge Program at the International English Center. For more information about your options for meeting our proficiency requirements, visit colorado.edu/admissions/selection/englishproficiency.

As an international student, you will need to provide additional visa materials before you can accept this offer of admission. Please complete the International Reply Form found on your application status page and follow the instructions within the form to upload the additional materials.

Once we receive these materials, our office will review them to determine if they are sufficient. If they are, we will notify you through email that your status has been updated so you may submit your $200.00 confirmation deposit through your application status page. If the materials are insufficient, we will contact you directly via email to request additional information. Please note that the process to review the materials and update your status may take several business days.

If you haven't done so, I hope you connect with us virtually. Sign up for one of our virtual visit programs at colorado.edu/virtualvisit, and make sure to connect with us on Instagram, Twitter and Facebook @FutureBuffs. It's a great way to meet other students before you come to CU Boulder.

Please contact us at +1-303-492-6301 or at intladm@colorado.edu if you have any questions. We look forward to having you join us at the University of Colorado Boulder.

Sincerely,

Clark V. Brigger
Executive Director of Admissions
University of Colorado Boulder