Dear [REDACTED]

The Purdue University Admissions Committee has carefully reviewed your application. You were considered for both your first-choice and second-choice (if one was selected) programs of study. Unfortunately, because of the competitive nature of the applicant pool, we are unable to offer you admission. However, the committee recognizes you have the ability to succeed on our campus in Physics and would like to offer you a spot on our waitlist for Fall 2021 enrollment.

With greater than 50,000 freshman applications, the Admissions Committee must make difficult decisions. Although Purdue is a large institution, resources are limited and we cannot fill our academic programs beyond their capacity.

To add yourself to our waitlist, complete the Waitlist Reply Form on your application status portal. Adding yourself to the waitlist is not binding; you will not be required to accept should you be offered admission from the waitlist. However, only those who request to be added will be offered admission from the waitlist if space becomes available.

Purdue will make final decisions about fall waitlisted students no later than mid-June 2021.

I appreciate your interest in Purdue and regret we are unable to provide the admission decision you hoped for. Please contact the Office of Admissions if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Mitchell W. Warren
Director of Admissions
